MISSIONS

The evil, mechanized Planet Red Eye has reached the Federation of Planets and is quickly approaching our Mother Planet. Our Mother Planet will soon be within range of the Wave Cannon, Red Eye's mighty attack weapon capable of destroying entire star systems by tapping a star's energy for the weapon's power source.

To execute Operation Starblade and save the Federation from the clutches of this almighty alien armada, you must complete the following four missions.

Descend to Planet Red Eye

Lead Team Starblade on the descent to Planet Red Eye.

Be prepared for a deep space rumble with Red Eye cruisers, atomic destroyers, laser star fighters, pentagon fire orbs, a war-torn asteroid belt and Red Eye's virtually impenetrable defense shield.

Good luck, commander.

Destroy Octopus

Penetrate Red Eye's unyielding defenses and destroy the Octopus power stone, Red Eye's central energy chamber, located deep within the planet. Here you'll face an onslaught of star raiders as you make your way through Red Eye's craggy canyons and defense bases.

Navigate the Red Eye ravine to avoid radar detection and penetrate the outer defense of Octopus; beware of energy stars, atom bubbles and quarry cannons; and keep an eye on your shield generators—you don't want to lose them out here!

Obliterate Iceberg

A job well done, now it's time to head back to the mother ship. But be warned: our sensors indicate large scale warp reaction at 12 o'clock. Looks like Red Eye's mighty Battleship, "Iceberg," isn't willing to let you leave just yet.

Your new orders are to exterminate Iceberg. The best way to destroy Iceberg is to annihilate all of the giant ship's cannon protrusions. Once you've melted Iceberg, get the @#!* outta there and come on home!

Return to Mother Ship

Well done, Geosword. Now all that separates you and a hero's welcome is...you guessed it—the Red Eye flagship "Commander."

Make every shot count! This heavily armed battle station is a virtual destruction machine. In fact, it's the Red Eye chain of command's strongest link. Blow Commander out of the galaxy and watch those Red Eye cruisers and star raiders flee for the Milky Way.

Good luck, commander. We look forward to your return!
